BRAZILIAN REBELS

Continue to Fire Shells Into the City of Rio Janeiro.

Barbarous Treatment Perpetrated by Pexioto's Troops.

Many People Fleeing from the Capital City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. The Herald's Montevideo correspondent cables: Word has just been received here from Rio Janeiro that the bombardment of the city by the rebel fleet, which was begun Wednesday, continued without cessation all day yesterday. Shot and shell from the ships are being thrown into the city, while the shore batteries managed by Pexioto's troops are returning the fire of the squadron. The greatest alarm prevails in the Brazilian capital, which is in an absolute state of panic. Business is entirely suspended and every man, woman and child who can do so is fleeing from the city.

Frightful outrages are being perpetrated by Pexioto's soldiers, who are committing murder and robbery and apparently are beyond all restraint. They have killed many defenseless persons and carried on a general plundering raid on stores and private residences.

Their Excesses

which began several days ago, and which at that time drove many families from the city, have increased in ferocity. During the past week the bombardment regards of armed soldiers are scouring the city in search of recruits. Men are being pressed into Pexioto's service on all sides. Artisans, clerks, merchants, everybody on whom these ruffians can lay hands, are forced into the ranks and hurried to the shore front where they are made to man the batteries and fight for the government. Pexioto's troops are also seizing prominent persons who are known to be in sympathy with Mello and throwing them into jail. The sympathies of the entire city are with Mello. Pexioto is blamed for drawing the fire of the fleet upon the town.

SHOT DOWN LIKE A DOG.

A Cold Blooded Murder in South Windsor, Conn.

The Deed Done to Satisfy an Old Grudge.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 6. Albert Skinner, a joiner, of South Windsor, was murdered in cold blood this morning, by John Cronin, a laborer. Cronin shot his victim in the right side with a pistol ball. Skinner died about eight o'clock. This morning, Cronin, who appears to have borne a grudge against Skinner, went to his house and as he came in from breakfast, deliberately shot him. Cronin was standing in the kitchen as Skinner entered from the pantry. He saw that Cronin was armed and tried to escape him. No one else was present at the shooting. Skinner's last words were:

He Hit Me in the Side and I Shall Die.

Skinner was discovered in a dying condition by his wife. Cronin was found hanging around the house with a pistol in his hand. He was disarmed by the men, who were attracted by Mrs. Skinner's cries. He was defiant, and when told that his victim was dead, replied: "I have shot the dog and it you'll take the handcuffs off I will go back and finish him, if he is not dead." I am willing to give my life to get that one." When told that he would probably be hanged, he said that he did not care. When formally arrested, he said:

"I Shot Him; Now Shoot Me."

Cronin was about half drunk, having served himself up for the deed with liquor.

Cronin is about 36 and Skinner, the murdered man, 34 years old. He lived and worked in South Windsor for years and was a sober, industrious, peaceful man. He leaves, besides a wife, two young children. The only known motive for the crime is the fact that the assassin formerly boarded in the Skinner family and was warned out on account of his drinking habits and bad disposition. Cronin has before threatened the lives of his employers when they have discharged him for drunkenness and cruelty. After being arrested he wanted to be released so he could go and kill Edwin Wilpple, for whom he formerly worked. He is a single man and his mother lives in this city. Mrs. Skinner is fearfully crazed with grief. Mrs. Skinner tried to kill herself twice this forenoon and had to be constantly watched to prevent her taking her life. Another account of the shooting says that Skinner and his little girl were eating breakfast when Cronin came in and shot him before the eyes of his little one.

MORTUARY.

Death of Ex-Judge Pardee.

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 6. Dwight Whitfield Pardee, Ex-Judge of the Superior Court and Errors, died at his home in this city, this morning, aged 71.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Death of Henry C. Sturtevant.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 6. Henry C. Sturtevant, for many years a Concord merchant, died in Boston, where he went for treatment, last night, aged fifty-five.

Accused by Dr. Mary Walker.

A Syracuse, N. Y., despatch of Wednesday says: Dr. Mary Walker visited Police Headquarters, to-day, and said she had come to have the real murderer of Christie Warden, who was killed at Hanover, N. H., July 17, 1891, taken into custody. At her request and on information given her by Chief of Police Wright sent for Arthur B. Snood, who has been a porter at the Windsor House.

When Snood appeared Dr. Walker declared he was not only guilty of the murder for which Almy was hanged, but was the man who threw the bomb in Russell Sage's office in New York. Then she plied Snood with questions, and got him to contradict himself several times. Chief Wright will hold Snood until he can investigate the doctor's story. Dr. Walker was recently refused a warrant for Snood's arrest at Oswego.

Dr. Walker has just returned to her farm near Oswego from another trip of investigation in New Hampshire. She says Snood went to work for her on her farm in May, 1891. He left for a time, but returned July 28, 1891, the day after Christie Warden was murdered. He stayed on her farm for a time and then went away again. On the evening Snood returned she says she asked him to read from the New York World the account of the Warden murder. He was visibly affected, especially by the description of the murderer, and had to be urged to go on. After he had finished, he went to his room, though it was only 8 o'clock.

He had told me, she said, that he had worked for a family of the name of Almy in New Hampshire, that his grandfather had died in an insane asylum and that his father was a clergyman. Under cross-questioning to-day, Snood denied that he had told her his father was a clergyman; he was a teacher, who occasionally preached.

Dr. Walker says that after killing Christie Warden Snood stole a horse, rode it all along as it would go, stole another and tired it out and then took a train and came to her farm. She says he told her he stayed at the Bingland Hotel, Oswego, the night of the murder, but she can now prove that he did not.

Dr. Walker says Almy and the Wardens went into a conspiracy to get the reward offered for the murderer's arrest. Almy thinking he could prove his innocence later. She says his lawyer went insane because he could not acquit him.

As to the Sage robbery, she says it was a conspiracy of Heroynes who was killed. She is willing [illegible]

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

State Convention Meets at Syracuse.

Stirring Remarks Made by Hon. P. W. Cullinan.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 6. The State Republican Convention assembled here to-day. Hon. P. W. Cullinan, of Oswego, was chosen temporary chairman. He said among other things: It is not long from March 4, 1893, to Oct. 6, 1893, and yet we have seen a picture of prosperity change to one of another hue, too familiar to require portraiture and exciting serious alarm for the future. But it is not my province to dwell on the spectacle at Washington, which humiliates us as a nation before the whole world. We are called together to nominate State officers and draft a platform expressive of our faith and appealing to the people to right the great wrong perpetrated by the theft of this State in 1891. That crime must not Go Unpunished.

And yet to-day the Democratic party at Saratoga, in State Convention assembled with an effrontery born of recklessness and contempt for the sacredness of our civil institutions, has determined to nominate the chief agent in that crime for the office of Judge of our highest court. I ask any honest Democrat, who loves his country above his party, if the nominee would have been considered fit and for his connection with that crime which Isaac H. Maynard is charged is not a putty but serious one against the people of the entire State. Shall it be said to the everlasting disgrace of our State that the promotion to the chief bench of justice follows as a reward for this crime.

After the appointment of Committees a recess was taken, until 3:30 p. m., by the convention.

ANNUAL MEETINGS

Of Biddeford Corporations on Thursday.

The annual meetings of Biddeford corporations were held Thursday afternoon. The following officers were elected:

Pepperell Manufacturing Company—Clerk, Burton H. Winslow, Saco; Treasurer, George Dexter, Boston; Directors, Grant Walker, Boston; J. W. Danielson, Providence; James B. McMullan, Portland; Phillip C. Tucker, Boston.

The Deadly Dynamo.

The mysterious "leakage" of electricity, which numberless improvements in the generator seem unable to check, was responsible for the loss of another human life in New York, Tuesday morning. William Mulrenan, an oiler in the power house of the Manhattan Electric Light Company, at Eighteenth street and Avenue B, was instantly killed by carelessly resting both arms at once upon a dynamo. There should have been no escape of electricity, but the current leaked at this particular point and when Mulrenan placed his arms upon the machine the entire current of 1,300 volts—more than ignited to the death chair in Sing Sing Prison—went through his body.

Mulrenan was about twenty-eight years of age. During the six months he had been in the company's employ he had established the reputation of being a good and careful workman. He was an officer of the day gang, but Monday night he volunteered to take the place of a fellow workman named Albert Kilney, whose time of duty lasted from 1 to 8 in the morning. Kilney's wife died Monday, and he wished to be home to make arrangements for the funeral. Mulrenan got a few hours' sleep before he went on duty again at 1 o'clock, and seemed to be wide awake.

At 2.20 he was sent up to the power room with another workman, Beverly Taylor, to loosen the oil cups of some dynamos which had begun to show signs of having over-heated journals. While the men were at work Taylor was startled by a cry of agony from Mulrenan. He looked up in time to see his companion fall heavily to the floor. In an instant he was by Mulrenan's side and called loudly for help. The other workmen in the house responded and every attempt was made to revive Mulrenan, but life had departed.

An ambulance was called from the Presbyterian Hospital, but the surgeon declared that death must have been instantaneous. The body, which was taken to an undertaker's at No. 1,610 First avenue, was embraced on the arms and chest. The doctors could not say whether they noticed the entrance and exodus of the powerful current or whether they were bruises, received by falling against the armature of the dynamo.

Mulrenan had a wife and several children living at No. 151 Twenty-third street, South Brooklyn.

Kitten Killer Caged.

The New York World says: Policeman Joseph Connelly, of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street police station, was walking along West One Hundred and Thirty-second street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, last night, when he saw a plainly dressed, plain-looking woman standing at the edge of a doorstep. She had a large market basket upon her arm, and was motioning towards the centre of the street with the forefinger of her right hand. The officer walked to within a few feet of where she stood and watched her. Out on the curbstone but a little white kitten. "Come, kitty, kitty; nice little kitty, come and get some little supper." The little white kitten mewed and came a little closer.

"What are you doing?" asked the officer.

The little pale-faced woman gave the officer a scornful glance and said: "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not." Then she turned, towards the little kitten. The officer remained silent, thinking the woman was crazy. A minute later the woman had the kitten by the neck. Then she whipped out from her basket a sponge saturated with chloroform and placed it over the kitten's head. When the kitten was dead the woman placed the body carefully in the market basket and covered it up. Officer Connelly arrested her and started for the station with his prisoner. In her basket she had ten dead cats and kittens.

In the station house she said she was Sarah J. Edwards, of 212 West One Hundred and Thirty-second street, and that she was a member of the Midnight Band of Mercy, which killed cats to prevent their suffering. She was locked up, a very angry woman.

Androscoggin.

Deputy Sheriff Carr is the hero of a bloody adventure at West Auburn Tuesday, and is receiving congratulations upon his success as a peacemaker. He was driving through the village when he discovered two men engaged in a desperate fight, punching and gouging and pulling hair for all they were worth, and covered with blood. Jumping from his team the officer pulled them apart, and discovered much to his amazement that one of the gladiators was an ex-member of the Legislature, one of the city's prominent men. The duel is the sensation of the day at West Auburn, but nobody takes it very seriously, and the deputy sheriff is still laughing at his reminiscences of the gory spectacle that confronted him when he interrupted the tragi-comedy.

Eglina C. Knight, aged thirty-five years, took morphine Wednesday, and then a dose of chloroform. She was found dead in her room in Portland, Wednesday night. She has been in the State insane asylum.

George C. Richer, charged with embezzlement from C. J. Walker & Co., of Portland, was before Judge Gould, Wednesday, pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $1,500.

Albert R. Furrington, of Portland rode from Chicago to Boston on his bicycle, in twelve days, and turned out of his course to see Niagara Falls. Here he spent half a day. His trip alone registered 1,110 miles in just about 11½ days' riding time, not with standing the rain and mud.

"There is almost as much individuality in typewriting as in handwriting," says an old Maine stenographer, "as the other day a prominent business man in Portland brought in a type-written page. He had discovered several vital alterations in it that materially affected his interests, for the page was a portion of an important legal document. You wrote that, didn't you?" he asked. I looked at it and said, "No, sir." "Why, yes you did," he replied, you made this copy five years ago and I sent it to this man in the West. He recently claimed more than he was entitled to and forwarded the alleged documentary proof. Yet I never sent him anything like that, it seems to me. Can't you remember something about it? "Well, sir, I never wrote that page of manuscript. I'm sure of that. Yet the lawyer could scarcely be convinced, saying that he had stood over me when I wrote the copy. It was afterward developed, the typewriter explained, that the western man had had one page of the document rewritten and the counterfeit was so exactly a duplicate that only the keen eye and unerring instinct of the type-writer detected the fraud. The western man weakened on his claim. Nearly all the big firms of lawyers and business men now sign every page of a type-written document in the margin and as an additional precaution seal its pages against separation. The opportunities for fraud otherwise are too abundant.

Franklin.

On Saturday, a woman, a deaf mute named Hill, attempted suicide by drowning in the Sandy river, not far from the pumping station. Her unusual actions preparatory to the step attracted the attention of some men working near and she was rescued and taken to the Exchange Hotel and later to the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. E. E. O. Lewis. She has shown signs of despondency before, as evidenced by her prolonged absence from home for several days.

It is said that a new paper will soon be started in Farmington.

Kennebec.

Some rascally conchist has disfigured the famous statue of Andrew S. Libby in the Oakland cemetery, by breaking off the nose. Mr. Libby is still in the flesh, indeed is very much so, and there would be another insult breakage if he could lay hold of the mischief-doer. Mr. Libby, a wealthy farmer, well known to State Fair goers, carried out an eccentric idea in having this duplicate of himself erected in the family lot several years ago at an expense of $2,500, and has always been as much attached to it as if it were a sort of twin brother.

Knox.

Charles Moore, who is serving a twenty-five years sentence for burglary in the State prison at Thomaston, had his plans all made to leave that institution the other day. The officials of the prison became suspicious that something underhand was going on and visited Moore's cell. That gentleman appeared to be eating a piece of bread, but as it took him an unusually long while to get it ready for swallowing the officer made him open his mouth which was found to contain a piece of leather. A further search disclosed the shank of a key in his hair, which, with the leather, made an ingenious key. Over the cot in the wall was found a place from which the mortar and cement had been carefully removed, and in the hole so made was a small but powerful steel saw, so ingeniously made bit stock, two steel wedges and other rudely constructed implements. On the other side of the cell was a similar hiding place, similarly stocked. Moore was the burglar captured in Portland six or seven years ago and this is the second time fate has foiled his attempts at escaping.

The Guilford Citizen understands that a steam saw mill is about to be erected by Williams and Chadbourne on the Cambridge road in the town of Parkman. It is expected that it will be in running order, in season for the manufacture of the logs hauled on the first snow.

Sagadahoc.

It looks as though a Bath girl would lose a legacy. A dilapidated old sailor in Portland fell in love with her some time ago and the girl, fooled him to such an extent that he drew up a will bequeathing to her his little hoard of $3,000. But a few weeks ago, he learned of an especially flagrant instance of the girl's perfidy. The old sailor went to a lawyer and to him he said: "I want you to scratch out that place right there," pointing to the bequest to the girl. "Then you write in where you scratch out the other, 'I take this back.'" But the lawyer had an improvement on even this unmistakable retraction.

One of the Belfast sportsmen went gunning the other day. No doubt but what he had the usual luck of other fellows—tramped all day in bright anticipation without realization says the Age. Not he; he's throwing out his chest like a winner. He says he saw the head of a partridge over a cradle knoll. He fired at it and on investigation found that he had not only killed the partridge but a rabbit was also squirming in death agony.

EMINENT MEN.

Men of Standing Whose Word is a Powerful Indorsement.

The Agent for the Great Prudential Insurance Company Speaks.

This is positive and convincing.

Joseph Brundage, Esq., whose office is No. 5 Academy Music, Newburg, N. Y., the agent of the great Prudential Insurance Co., is widely known as a prominent and influential business man.

He is one of the type of eminent men whose word commands belief, and we gladly publish what he says because we know it to be true and because others will be assured of its truth by its own powerful words.

"I was broken down in health and almost used up," he said. "I was terribly nervous and could not sleep nights. I was also troubled with dyspepsia in its worst form. All the food I ate almost killed me with pain, indigestion, gas and bloating of the stomach.

"I commenced to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and took five bottles. I now feel changed, quite better, in fact am all right and can eat anything without hurting me a bit and sleep well and soundly.

Joseph Brundage

"In fact this wonderful medicine has been all in all to me, I have gained ten pounds in weight and feel like another man. I would have given $10 a bottle for it if I could not get it for less. I am therefore one of its strongest advocates and feel that I cannot praise it enough in recommending it to others who wish to be cured."

One of the peculiar features of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the fact that so many eminent persons, people foremost among ministers, physicians, scientists and the best known and most prominent business men, recommend the use of this valuable medicine.

They do it because they know that it cures and because they feel that the weight of their name and influence will be strong in urging others to try this great curer of disease and so be cured.

The remedy is purely vegetable and druggists and druggists sell it for $1. It is the prescription and discovery of the well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the most successful specialist in all curable nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1893.

The Disgrace Consummated.

The New York Democratic State convention affords another illustration of the "hollowness of President Cleveland's pretensions to political purity." The machine candidate for judge of the Court of Appeals is Isaac H. Maynard, a man whose record is so dishonorable that he has been publicly denounced by the Bar Association and opposed by several of the leading Democratic papers. The machine profited by his acts in aiding the legislative steal and the machine was determined to reward him. The matter has been canvassed in the papers for weeks, but although in the President's own State the disgraceful performance has been carried through without a word of protest from him.

Nor is this all. The anti-snappers, or Cleveland men, went to the convention with a show of contesting the nomination, but the wily machine managers found them ready to "dicker for the spoils," and made them a party to the disgraceful nomination. The snappers agreed to give the anti-snappers the nomination of a candidate for Secretary of State in consideration of a withdrawal of any opposition to Maynard, and the trade was easily consummated. For a mere mess of pottage the Cleveland men have become partners in a transaction so shameful that even the Evening Post is constrained to say that if the man secured as a candidate for Secretary of State "were the best possible man for the place in the State his candidacy would not make Maynard's less odious or less disgraceful to the party."

The Tariff of 1846.

A workingman whose memory dates back to the days of 1846 propounds some very interesting facts for the Boston Herald to grapple with. That paper has advocated a revision of the tariff on the basis of the tariff of 1846, but the workingman in question takes exception to its statements concerning the alleged prosperity of the period in the following letter:

"I was about 12 years of age in 1846 and worked in a cotton mill in Rhode Island and received $2 a week for doffing. The wages paid in the cotton mills at that time were fully 50 per cent. lower than paid for the same work to-day. Back boys received $1.25 a week, mule spinners did not average $7 per week. Weavers on four looms did not average over $3 50 per week. It was a very good overseer who received over $8 per week. Good mechanics could not earn over $8 per week. Card strippers only received 58 cents a day, and they were men; card grinders from $4.60 to $5 a week. We all worked 72 hours a week. The best flour was $7 a barrel at retail. Sugar was at least one-third dearer than now. Prints were 12 cents a yard, and everything in clothing was equally as high.

"These wages and prices continued until 1857, when nearly all the mills shut down and there was little work to be had. Soup houses were established in the cities, and in the towns mill people were assisted by the town. In the spring of 1858 business looked a little brighter, and the factories again began to start. Our wages were reduced 25 per cent. There was no further change till about the second year of the war, since which time wages have been higher and people have had better food and better clothing than ever before.

"Doffers receive on an average of $4.00 a week, back boys from $3 to $5, and mule spinners earn from $11 to $15, and some even more. Weavers average over $8 per week, and overseers $3 50 a day the country over. Mechanics command, or have within a few months, $2.50 a day. Card strippers get $1 05 a day, and card grinders from $3 to $10.50 a week. Now they work 58 hours a week in Massachusetts and 60 in other States. Provisions, clothing and, in fact, everything is at least 40 per cent. lower than in 1846 and 1857."

The truthfulness of this picture will be instantly recognized by wage earners who are old enough to recall those times. Is it any wonder that William Welch, of Hopedale, who communicates these facts, asks in astonishment, "Can it be that the Herald wants the laboring people to be reduced to the conditions they were in in 1846 and 1857?" Careful reading of the Herald's columns should show him that this is precisely what that paper is laboring for.

A Representative Appointment.

Commenting upon the Van Alen incident the Brooklyn Standard-Union says: The Democratic-Mugwump alleged independent and astute yelling, kicking and braying about Wanamaker doesn't meet the Van Alen case. All the fine balancing of phrases and the disguise of hard thoughts in soft words will not serve.

Mr. Horace White's statements are testimony that cannot be explained or contradicted, so far as the attitude of the Cleveland Administration goes. The little he has said carries a long way.

The last vestige of the always unwarranted presumption that President Cleveland was a civil service reformer has been annihilated, and there is nothing left but ignominy in that line.

Mr. Wanamaker was a business man known throughout the United States. He was a Republican on principle, a thorough Pennsylvanian and Philadelphian. He was not a very large contributor to the campaign funds in the Harrison campaigns. What he did was to obtain considerable subscriptions, but there was nothing very remarkable in that.

There never has been as much money spent in election campaigns anywhere, in any age of the country, as in the three Presidential runs by Grover Cleveland and for him.

The Republican millionaire thinks he has done splendid things when he gives five thousand dollars, and if he, under pressure, makes it ten thousand, he regards himself as reckless.

The Democrats are less conservative. They subscribe money copiously and are free with it. There was one lump of fat put into the Cleveland pot in 1884 of $150,000. There was one railroad last summer that gave the Cleveland fund $100,000, and needed the money afterward.

While Cleveland was speaking at the Lenox Lyceum last year abusively of Republicans for using money, $300,000, chiefly milked from the saloons and other places in New York subject to secret taxation, was crossing the Harlem River from the city to the State.

The election of Gov. Flower cost that amiable gentleman and those who were in close communion with him $606,000, the greater part of which was employed before his nomination, and yet he made a truthful official statement of expenses. Gen. Roger A. Pryor was charged with $10,000 for the expenses of elevating him to the Bench, and there was not a dollar that he should have paid. The money was exacted. It is the Democratic system. The Democrats a year ago were rank with reform, and roaring about the wickedness of the Republicans in using money, while they were suffering Cleveland bonds. The Democratic end of Wall street shrouded such into the overweight finishing of an unaccepted rate.

Mr. Alger's $60,000 was a typical gift. He, Flagg, who handled the funds for Rhode Island, thinks that he of [illegible]

he wrote a very cautious letter with a crook in it to Cleveland, recommending Van Alen. Care was taken to get the usual endorsement from the boss of the small sovereign State. This is indispensable to most personal appointments.

If an office is absolutely sold, care is taken that the forms shall all be right; that the record contains officially no trace of the cash in hand and the understanding.

If any one has purchased an office—if he has got a sure thing of it—the first requirement is to get up papers to hide the real character of the transaction. The characteristics of these transactions are familiar. The Van Alen case is a well known type, and Mr. Whitney's letter and Van Alen's letter are in regular form.

They would not have been so regular if they had not been prepared for evasion and denial. They supplement what Mr. White says, and more than confirm him. To the eye of every practical politician in the country they give the whole snap away.

Mr. Cleveland's knowledge that he was expected to reward Mr. Van Alen for his liberality is exploited. The civil service reform President, of the public office is a public trust phraseology justified the anticipations of his pecuniary supporters.

The Van Alen case is not alone. The foreign appointments generally are like unto it—the only diversity being that the great majority of the places to represent us abroad have been flung, not only to spoilsmen, but to men who in the crisis of the Republic sought to destroy it. They have now a specialty of honor and emolument in other lands, showing how fond and flabby the Republic is to those who were its enemies in its hours of peril.

The New York Evening Post tells plainly of the scandalous use of the patronage of the State Department, but pauses to make an exception of the two flagrant and notorious Confederate sympathizers, now Ambassadors to England and France.

This is in the department of which Walter Q. Gresham is the figurehead, and he was the man needed so acutely to save the country that, though he came high, Cleveland had to have him.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Silver Repeal Senators will Make the Final Effort.

They Will Make Their First Move Next Wednesday.

The Silverites will Filibuster and Try to Tire them Out

Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct 6 The routine morning business was disposed of very speedily this morning and then the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered on Wednesday last by Mr Peffer, Populist, of Kansas, for a special committee on improvement of the banking system of the country The resolution was referred to the Finance Committee and Mr Morgan's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire what provisions of the free coinage act of 1837 are still in force was agreed to without discussion and without division

Mr Stewart made a long and serious complaint against the Treasury Department for not buying four and a half million ounces of silver bullion per month as required by the Sherman law

The silver purchase repeal bill was taken up and Mr McPherson, Democrat of New Jersey, gave notice that he should on Monday next (the Island voice permitting), address the Senate on one or two points that had been touched in the discussion

Mr Hinkburn, Democrat, of Kentucky, sent to the clerk's desk and had read an argument in the repeal bill which he had given notice of in his speech on Wednesday

Mr Call, Democrat, of Florida concluded his argument against the repeal bill which he began on Wednesday

At the close of Mr Call's speech Mr Butler, Democrat of South Carolina, continued the speech began by him last Wednesday His argument was in favor of the amendment heretofore suggested by him to repeal the 10 per cent tax on the notes of state banks He stated that he had no prejudice against the national banks but he thought these dangerous, very dangerous, depositories of property

Mr Teller inquired whether Mr Butler did not want to have such currency as would circulate all over the United States will not the necessity of paying exchange which had to be paid in the old days

Mr Butler replied that that was purely a matter of opinion, but he was not concerned about the uniformity of currency The state of Maine would throw safeguards around its state banks and the State of North Carolina would do likewise He argued that, knowing the decision of the supreme court to the contrary there was constitutional power in Congress to impose a tax unless revenue was the object, and not a dollar of revenue was collected from the tax on State banks Mr Butler read an article explanatory of the system of Scotch banks

Mr Dolph read a statement showing the condition of State banks in January, 1884

Mr Hill then spoke against the repeal bill After an executive session the Senate adjourned

House

The House met at 10 o'clock Immediately after reading and approval of the journal the federal election bill was taken up Mr Elliott Republican, of Nebraska, continuing his speech in opposition to the repeal of the election laws

Mr Hijis Republican of Pennsylvania, described the pending measure Mr Brookshire, Democrat, of Indiana, defended the pending proposition Mr Fyan, Republican, of New York in opposition to the measure, criticised the Secretary of the Treasury in acting upon the silver bill The people he said were unnerved by the unsound talk there

Mr English Democrat of New Jersey, admitted the constitutionality of the federal elections laws but advocated the repeal because they were arbitrary and oppressive Mr Cummings, Democrat, of New York, denounced the election laws Mr Baker, Republican of New Hampshire, argued against the bill Mr Towne, Republican of Minnesota, also spoke against the bill Mr Talbert, Democrat of South Carolina, commended the bill and Mr Geis Republican Democrat of New Jersey

Quite a number were present when the House at 5 45 o'clock adjourned

Will Attempt to Push Repeal Bill Through

The list of action for the next week in the Senate is now definitely determined upon and the screws will be applied on Wednesday at the appointed hour of 2 o'clock Several days ago Mr Voorhees telegraphed all the friends of repeal of the intended programme and warned them that they must positively be in Washington not later than Wednesday

The reason that the repeal question was not forced earlier in the week was that several of those Senators said that inability to return sooner This programme was under discussion today by the Democratic repeal members and it was agreed that the time had come for a final effort The Senate will meet next Wednesday as usual and when six o'clock arrives Senator Voorhees will rise in the Senate to

Continue in Session

This will naturally be contemplated by the silverites and the contest will begin The Republicans expect to have a quorum present and it is said that this time they have agreed to stand firm and follow the leaders until the repeal bill is passed or the flag lowered It is believed that the silver men will filibuster for a portion of the time and when they grow tired of this will put one of their men to the front to conduct the debate

In both the agreed policy of the repealers is that they will make no more speeches but be ready at every moment when the talk lags to insist upon a vote being taken The repeal men have been given to understand that the silver men will have but two of their number in the Senate to vote to speak and the other to make motions and demand a call of the Senate when they believe there is not a quorum present In this way by having

the silverites expect to throw upon the others the burden of maintaining the quorum While the silver men have opportunities to take short rests, the repealing contingent will be compelled to be on hand at every moment The silver men predict that they can wear the older members out in one night Some contend that they cannot hold out for even one night

Just what the attitude of the Republicans will be cannot be determined as yet with any degree of certainty Many are uneasy Fears are entertained that though nearly all of them are willing and anxious to vote on the subject, a number of them may not be willing to remain up all night under call of the Democratic whip It is reported that the President has been informed of what the Senators consider to be the true situation and that he has insisted that this final effort be made

GREAT SCARS ON BOTH SIDES

Will Cost $400 000 or $500 000 to Repair the Montgomery

A New London, Conn, despatch says The damage to the cruiser Montgomery is much greater than was known yesterday when the cruiser was hauled off the rocks of Black Ledge, where she was stranded

Naval Constructor Bobo made a thorough examination under the ships forward bollers to-day and reported to Admiral Belknap that in his opinion, 10 weeks' time will be required to repair the vessel after she is in dry dock, and that the cost will be $400 000 to $500,000

It is found that there are great scars on both sides of the ship, beginning just under the bilge keel, about 40 feet abaft the stem on the port side This injury which is fully two feet wide, runs aft for 75 feet

On the starboard side the injury is 60 feet in length

All along the surface of these wounds the steel plates are indented from three to seven inches and the plate seams are torn open

A board of survey from this city, representing the $600,000 of insurance, placed by underwriters on the vessels for the trial trip, visited the cruiser today It pronounced the craft soundly ashore and fit to make the run to Baltimore for repairs, as the contractors, the Columbian works, request The vessel will accordingly sail in the morning for Baltimore if the weather is favorable

The government trial board was dismissed this afternoon by Admiral Belknap, and the vessels of the government fleet ordered to return to their respective

STATE CONVENTION

Of New York Democrats at Saratoga

SARATOGA, N Y, Oct 6 At the Democratic State convention to-day Cofel Mayor of Newton was nominated for secretary of State, Francis Campbell of Bath, State Comptroller, Hugh Duffy, of Cortland, for State Treasurer, Isaac H Maynard, of Stamford for Judge of the Court of Appeals Simon W Rosendale, of Albany, for Attorney General, Martin F Schenck of Albany for State Engineer

The platform congratulates the people of New York that the will of the people has at length found opportunity for complete expression in the fact of Democratic control of both the executive of the state and legislative branches of the government and rejoices at length the enactment of wise laws by the Democratic law makers and the benefits occurring therefrom to the people

The platform declares that the Democratic party is pledged to repeal the unwise and unjust national laws of Republican origin and may safely be trusted to reconstruct the currency and tax laws in accordance with popular needs and sound political principles demands the repeal of the Sherman silver bill and pledges to support President Cleveland to secure the enactment of Democratic measures and the carrying out of Democratic policies thereby restoring confidence among the people and re-establishing a condition of commercial and industrial prosperity, recent events have emphasized and confirmed the utterances of the Democratic State platform of 1891 and 1892, and the Democratic national platform of last year in denunciation of the Sherman law

SPIKER IN SOLITARY

Notorious Prisoner Removed from the Dark Cell

A Providence, R I, despatch says The notorious "Spiker" Murphy who is serving a life sentence for murder, and who was one of the leaders in the recent daring attempt to escape from prison, in which George Ellwood was shot and killed was removed from the dungeon in the cellar of the prison this morning for the first time since he made the dash for liberty

Murphy was placed in what is known as a solitary cell, where he will remain Whatever work he does will be done in this cell, the door of which is covered with a heavy wire screen to prevent any one passing a weapon or poison to him

He will not be permitted to receive any visitors for some months to come and he will not be sent back to the workshop as the prison officers have learned that some of the desperate criminals in the workshop call him a coward, and threaten to do him harm if he is sent to the shop

They are particularly bitter toward him because of the way in which he induced a half witted prisoner to assist in the plot to escape, and because he deserted Ellwood at the moment when the attack was made

It has been found through the confession of "Yankee Dan" Sullivan that Murphy tried to get him to induce his relatives to secure oil of vitriol for him to throw into the officer's face when the attack was made

Murphy refused to make any confessions The solitary cell which he now occupies is next to that in which Ryan, a 20-year prisoner, who recently shot Night Watchman Armstrong during an attempt to escape is kept Both cells are so situated that they are under the eyes of a guard at all times

Mrs R W Whelden, of Old Town, has been in the city for a visit with friends.

Mr and Mrs Leon P. Higgins leave on the boat to-day for Boston. Mr Higgins is to return in a few days but his wife is to spend some weeks visiting in Boston and vicinity.

The sloop yacht Norseman, which has for some time been moored just below the toll bridge, is being stripped of her spars and lighter rigging preparatory to being hauled out for the winter.

Mr A. K. P. Saunders has some four and one-half month old chickens which he considers as being remarkable ones, they having already began to contribute to their support by laying eggs.

The Y. P. S. C. E., connected with the South Brewer Congregational church is to hold a business meeting next Wednesday evening and the semi annual election of officers is to be held at that time.

The Ladies Aid Society, of the First M. E. Church held its fortnightly meeting for work, Thursday afternoon in the vestry and a delicious supper was served in the evening and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr Ernest Gross has returned from a short hunting trip and brought with him a large and handsome buck as a proof of his prowess with the rifle. The deer was at Ticketa's market in Bangor, yesterday.

The number of Brewer young men at the Maine State College, at Orono, has been increased by two. Mr Harvey White and Mr William Holyoke who entered the institution at the beginning of the present term.

The new sewerpool at the foot of Bridge Hill State street has been completed and yesterday the ground about it was being leveled. This finishes the work in connection with the short sewer extension across Penobscot square.

An extension is being built on the piazza of the house on the corner of Holyoke and Washington streets occupied by Principal I. W. Freeman of the High school which will add to the attractive appearance of the dwelling.

Mrs J. J. Crosby, who has been confined to the house for a number of weeks by illness, was able to ride out for the first time Thursday and has been recovering quite rapidly. Her many friends will be pleased to note her improvement.

Tickets for the grand concert in City Hall next Thursday evening will be for sale at the South Brewer postoffice on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of next week from 2 to 5 o'clock, in addition to the other places of sale. A plan of the hall will be there.

The first meeting for the season of the Chapel Society of the Second Congregational church is to be held next Tuesday afternoon. In the evening a social time will be spent and Rev. Mr. Ramage, the new minister at South Brewer and his wife will be present to meet the people socially.

A man who drove through the city and across the toll bridge, yesterday forenoon, must have come from a place where game was plenty, judging by the contents of his wagon. He had two deer, two bears and a fox and if they were the result of one day's hunting that man has a great record.

A crew of men was at work yesterday at the railroad crossing, on State street, replacing the stone pipe drain which has caused so much trouble during the past winter or two with a good sized plank drain. The pipe was put in new but a few years ago but did not work well, not being large enough to carry off the water which comes down beside the track.

Mr Josiah McKenney, of this city brought into the Winn office a stalk, an immense stalk weighing, twelve pounds, made more remarkable by the fact that from the roots extending from its bottom were more than 200 small turnips. It was a very unusual specimen and excited the curiosity of all who saw it. Mr McKenney grew a similar one last year.

Reports of burglaries in close proximity to the more settled parts of this city and Bangor are frequent and a hunter does not have to go far to secure a shot. Partridge, snipe and deer have been seen a number of times and now we are informed that Mr Edward McKenney, who lives out on Eastern avenue, four or five miles from the toll bridge saw a large moose in his field a day or two ago—pretty near civilization for one of the kings of the deer tribe.

The fact that nearly one hundred tickets were sold on the first evening that the sale was opened shows the interest people are taking in the grand concert to be given in City Hall next Thursday evening, by the Cecilian Ladies' Quartette and the Apollo Quartette. It will be a very fine musical event and none should miss it. Secure your seats early and get good ones. Tickets on sale every evening at the Brewer postoffice and D. Bugbee & Co.'s store in Bangor.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE PASSENGERS. The passengers on one of the electric cars had a good laugh yesterday afternoon at the expense of a young man who was passing on a team. The car was coming from South Brewer and was met by the team. On the wagon were two men, one driving the other seated on a keg in the rear portion of the vehicle. As the car came up to the team the driver whipped up his horse. The animal started suddenly and the young man in the rear began a struggle to preserve his equilibrium, but this he could not do and finally he went over the back of the wagon [illegible] still flying sprawlingly about in the endeavor to save himself. He landed in an ignominious heap on the ground, but was not hurt and with surprising agility reached for his hat, which had become detached from his head in the melee, scrambled to his feet and, without stopping to brush from his clothes the dust and dirty which had resulted from his sudden and violent contact with the street, started after the rapidly receding team at a gait that was wonderful to see. He caught it and when last seen was apparently calling the driver to account for his part in the unfortunate's fall of body and pride.
